

Community action on CLEAN AIR

Neil Parry watches as Audrey Harris, of Bard Street, Sheffield, takes down an air sampling tube for lab testing. >

Communities across Sheffield are taking action on clean air and more local initiatives are being introduced to help make the air we breathe of the best possible quality. We take a closer look.

Neil Parry is a long time champion of clean air. He is a member of Sheffield's East End Quality of Life Initiative. EEQoL, working with Tinsley Forum, started monitoring over 10 years ago and works closely with the City Council, which has the job of measuring air quality right across the city.

He says: "Monitoring started because local people were concerned about the effects of air pollution. Because of the quality of life initiative they can now voice their concerns about poor air quality, traffic and its effects on their health and their quality of life."

www.sheffieldeastend.org.uk

Help to clear the air with Care4Air

Care4Air is a partnership that aims to raise awareness of air quality issues and highlight local action to improve it. Whether you are an individual who wants to make a difference, an organisation, school or business, Care4Air can give you information to help you do your bit to improve air quality.

www.care4air.org 273 4655

One Care4Air scheme is helping South Yorkshire to lead the way towards improving air quality with its ECO (Efficient and Cleaner Operations) Stars Fleet Recognition Scheme. The scheme, the first of its kind in the UK, recognises companies that use vehicles that cause less pollution.

If you are interested in taking part or for more information contact ecostars@ttr-ltd.com 01543 416 416
www.care4air.org