

mapping for change

Effective local action on Air Pollution in London

A conference for concerned communities and organisations

University College London, Gower Street, London WC1
10.00am – 4.30pm April 17th 2013

The conference is being organised by Mapping for Change, a community interest company based at University College London, that is working with communities to map local air pollution issues.

Mapping for Change welcomes all those active on this issue to attend – including community organisations, local councils, NGOs, public health bodies and researchers.

Speakers will include people from London communities active on these issues along with:

- Murad Qureshi, Chair of Health & Environment Committee, Greater London Authority
- Dr Ian Mudway, Environmental Research Group, King's College London
- Maria Arnold, Healthy Air Campaign
- Simon Birkett, Clean Air for London
- Neil Parry, East End Quality of Life Initiative, Sheffield
- Louise Francis, Mapping for Change

healthy air

CleanAir
IN LONDON

sustrans
JOIN THE MOVEMENT

friends of the earth

It will focus on:

- Current policy and knowledge issues
- The current state and future potential of local action
- Gaps in knowledge and action
- The role of local councils and public health agencies
- The potential for co-operative action by different agencies and organisations

The conference is free but places are limited.

Advance booking is essential – book on-line at <http://localactiononairpollution.eventbrite.com>

For further information contact:

Chris Church – c.church@mappingforchange.org.uk

This conference is supported by the Healthy Air Campaign, Clean Air for London, Sustrans, Friends of the Earth and the East End Quality of Life Initiative (Sheffield).

Mapping for Change is grateful for the support of the City Bridge Trust for this event.